The 24th annual Greek Festival of Sydney will launch next month with a day long celebration at Darling Harbour on the 26th of March, so bring your family, bring your appetite and bring your dancing shoes for a day of art, music, fine food and Greek festivities.

With expected crowds of well over 250,000 this year's celebration marking Greek Independence Day (March 25) will include the Greek Independence Day March, dancing groups, stand-up comedy, childrens' activities, musical performances, mouth watering Greek delicacies and special guests.

This event will go on into the night and will be the perfect way to celebrate multicultural Australia and the beauty of Greek culture through the arts, history, entertainment and food.

The Darling Harbour celebration will kick off the month long Greek Festival of Sydney, with over 30 events scheduled on this year's program.

The Greek Festival of Sydney is one of Australia's premier cultural events promoting Hellenic Culture to the Greek and wider communities through a range of community events and activities.

From cooking classes, theatre and political panel discussions to childrens' activities, music and dance, this year's Festival will have something for everyone.

Contemporary arts will feature significantly with several discussions and exhibitions, which will look at controversial topics and progressive art forms within the Australian Greek community.

Another focus of this year's Festival program is a series of events which will cater directly to Sydney youth in an effort to educate and involve them in multicultural activities they will enjoy and relate to.
